

SUPER BOWL LX SUNDAY: The day we discover America's true religion.

America is caught up in a great war for its very soul, and our true religious affiliations will be on display that portentous day. Not by church attendance that morning, but by the Super Bowl that afternoon. WWII Era German theologian Paul Tillich said something to the effect that everyone has some sort of religion; it is their ultimate concern. We will see what American's ultimate concerns are. There has been some minor dispute over the halftime show. President Trump, to his credit has stated that he will not be watching; but I suppose most American football fans will be. NFL spokes persons assure us that their selection of halftime entertainment will "unite us". I'm sure that is their honest expectation, at least that of the money powers behind the NFL. But unite us in what?

Upon hearing that threat to unite us, my mind turned to "One Ring to rule them all, One Ring to find them, One Ring to bring them all and in the darkness bind them". Yes, the Super Bowl LX ring may be the ring that brings in many impressionable people and binds them in the depraved darkness of the homosexual life. It is set up for just that purpose.

The Apple Music Super Bowl LX Halftime Show is set to feature the supposedly well known performer Bad Bunny whose show is going to 'celebrate icons of homosexuality'. Another supposedly well known performer, Charlie Puth, will be performing the national anthem. Puth is described as "an outspoken ally to the LGBTQ+ community". Apple is run by a homosexual billionaire dedicated to spreading his perversion. So the table is set for millions of Americans to be abused, insulted, mooned by people and cultures wholly alien to traditional American Christian culture. But the American public, largely, will sit quietly through it, as their children and grandchildren, husbands and wives, teachers and preachers absorb the great show; all the pop culture splash, noise, lights, celebrities, sensuality, and homosexual indoctrination along with the game. Because that is our common religion — mindless absorption of whatever 'entertainment' is put before us by whomever has the money to call the tune.

Turning Point USA is producing an online "all American" alternative to the half time show which I hope many people will turn to. We can get an idea of the high expectations the purveyors of darkness have for their show by the level of social media hatred aimed at the TPUSA alternative — it is vile and pervasive, making it difficult even to get information on the show. The best information I could find is on americanhalftimeshow.com.

The future of America is in the hands of those who stand, not those who sit; if enough stand. I will be hoping and praying that many Americans watching the 'uniting in the darkness' performance will have a bellyful and rise up against the NFL, Apple, and the other decadent elites forcing on us homosexuality, and its transgender and other "woke" offspring, and put a stop to it. If that happens, it will be the result of prayer.
